

the seven. The great falls made deeper impression on me than anything I saw on the entire trip.

From Niagara we went on to Toronto, Canada, crossing the Niagara river on one of the magnificent suspension bridges that span the river above the falls. We passed by the monument that marks the grave of Maj. Isaac Brock who was killed in the War of 1812. Toronto is a wonderful city of two hundred thousand inhabitants. There are more churches there than any city of its size I have ever seen. The Church of England is by far the strongest of them all. Toronto is noted for its institutions of learning. Some thirty colleges and collegiate institutes are located there.

I had the pleasure of meeting a number of distinguished men, among them that I now remember, are Dr. Hall and Chief Justice McLaren of the supreme court. I was shown through Osgood Hall, where the different courts are held. They have all the state reports in the library. I of course looked at the S. C. reports.

There were fully three thousand delegates at the convention. It was indeed a notable gathering of representative men and women.

At the Metropolitan church I saw an organ which is played both in front and in the rear. Some of the delegates, for lack of a better name, called it an echo organ. I was struck with the clearness of the tone and the reverberations.

From Toronto, we went by boat down the St. Lawrence river to Montreal. Before we got to Montreal, we passed the great rapids in the St. Lawrence (I forget the name.) Montreal is a city of about three hundred and fifty thousand inhabitants. It is a Catholic city largely and is noted for the number of beautiful cathedrals that adorn the city. On the top of one of them they have bronze figures of the twelve Apostles.

We went from there to Quebec which is quite a quaint city. The place of most interest to us was the "plains of Abraham" just outside of the city limits, where General Wolfe was killed and General Montcalm was mortally wounded. A granite monument marks the spot where Wolfe gave up his life in fighting the battles of his country. The hill which Wolfe and his men ascended in reaching the Plains from the river is very steep and is seventy-five or a hundred feet high. It looks like it is an impossibility to climb it.

Returning to Quebec we went over the "old town" which was built right along the brink of the river. The streets of old Quebec are very narrow and dirty. We passed through a street leading from the river up the hill to what is now the principal city and saw some children playing in the narrow street—ten feet wide—and we asked them the name of the street. They told us it was called Sous-le-Cap. As this name suggests, Quebec is decidedly a French city. So far as I know it is the only walled city on the continent. A Bronze kibble on the steep bank of the river marks the sight where General Montgomery of the United States was killed in leading an attack on the English in the War of 1812.

Before returning from Quebec we visited the Falls of Montmorency. They are much higher than Niagara, but only a small

Foolish Woman

Burns Fifteen Thousand Dollars Because She Believed Her Husband wanted her Money.

Chicago, Nov. 18.—Mrs. Charlotte M. Weightman, who recently brought suit against her husband for separate maintenance, told Judge Brentano during the hearing of the case that she believed her husband had married her for money, and that she therefore threw the money and securities, valued at $15,000, into the stove and watched them burn. She afterwards left her husband and when she sought reconciliation she was told not to enter the house again. A decree giving the woman $28 a month was given.

Monroe's New Hundred Thousand Dollar Cotton Mill Assured.

Monroe is to have a new cotton mill, a spinning mill with five thousand spindles and a capacity of six thousand bales of cotton per year. The name of the mill is "Icemorlee," named in honor of Messrs. Charles Iceman, of McColl, S. C., R. A. Morrow and W. S. Lee, of Monroe, these gentlemen being the prime movers and large stockholders in the new enterprise. The mill will be located on Mr. W. H. Phifer's land northwest of town. Work on the building will begin as soon as it is possible to get material on the ground. It is the intention of the stockholders to have the spindles going next spring. The capital stock is one hundred and ten thousand dollars. The stockholders meet sometime the first of next week to elect officers.—Monroe Enquirer.

Constables Back in Union.

Governor Heyward today, after receiving a number of reports from Union county, decided to order the constables back in that county. This action is taken because of the belief that the dispensary law is not being enforced since that county voted out the dispensary. The policy of Governor Heyward was announced several months ago in The Record. As soon as a county votes out the dispensary the constabulary is withdrawn and the county and town officials are given an opportunity to enforce the law. If it is found that the law is not being enforced the constabulary is sent back. This has been done in several counties.—Columbia Record.

stream of water passes over the cataract and they do not rival in grandeur the Falls of Niagara. While I greatly enjoyed the trip, I was glad to get back home. On my return I recalled that beautiful couplet.

"Where'er I travel, whatever realms to see,
My heart untraveled fondly turns to thee"—Home of course.

Horse Notes.

As a rule, the quick walker is the safe horse.

Look at the disposition of a stallion as well as at his form, size, pedigree, etc.

Load the team according to their strength and use the whip as little as possible.

Colts that are fed high and grow fast, need more exercise than those whose rations are limited.

The frog in a horse's foot should touch the earth at every step; it is constructed for that purpose.

Feed for strength and muscle rather than fat. Surplus flesh is a hindrance to a horse that has to work.

Do not expect a young horse that is taking his first lesson in work to do as much as a horse well accustomed to it.

In selecting for breeding, it is well to remember that a horse cannot transmit what he does not himself possess.

The market will be overstocked with cheap horses as long as farmers patronize stallions because their service fee is low.

Good strong mares can raise a good colt each year and still do about as much farm work as geldings. It is easy to figure that they are more profitable.

There is a loss of available income in raising any kind of stock which is devoid of good quality, but this is especially true of horses.

In nearly all cases the community that raises good draft or carriage horses will be found prosperous and progressive.

A farm may be made much better by farming it with teams that are able to cultivate the crop in the best possible manner.

The more gentle and quiet you can keep colts from the time they are foaled up to the time they are old enough to work, the better for them and for you.

Give the mares plenty of time to eat their meals. It is poor economy to take a horse from the stable before he has had time to finish his meals.

If you want horses that will be ready sale at good prices, breed the best of whatever strain you fancy. There are always buyers for good draft or carriage horses.

By breeding your grade draft fillies to the same type of stallion as their sire, in a short time you will have a number of brood mares uniform in size, contour, disposition and color.

Both parents should be selected so that the points of one may be adapted to points of the other; for although both may approach perfection individually, the points which characterize the one may actually counteract the other.

One advantage, at least, on the farm, with the fall colt, is that as the mare need not be worked hard during the winter she can better suckle her colt while there is more time for handling the colt. The Live Stock Journal.

MONEY TO LOAN.

I am prepared, as usual, to negotiate loans, on improved cotton farms, in sums of $200.00 and upwards for five years. Interest at 7 per cent. on sums of $1,000.00 and over. Under $1,000.00, 8 per cent. interest. No brokerage or commission charged—only a reasonable fee for abstract of title.

R. E. WYLLIE,
Attorney-at-Law.

Notice.

To the overseers of the Public Roads of Lancaster County. I again ask you all to warn out your hands and work each of your sections of the public roads, as many days as the law requires or until you get your road in good condition. I want to find that each section of road in the county is worked good between this and the last day of November. As you all know you can't do much good working the clay roads during the winter months.

The grand jury held a meeting on the first Monday in September last and requested me to give notice to all of the overseers to put four days' work on each section of road by the first Monday in Oct. and for each of you to make a report to me that day. And I did so, but many of you failed to work or to make any report. So I kindly ask you all to read the report of the grand jury at the last term of the court. You will see by that report that they want to have the roads worked better than they have ever been in the past, or have the law enforced against any one who fails to discharge his duty. Let every one do his duty, and the law will not be enforced against any one, but otherwise, they say it must be done. Take due notice therefore and govern yourself accordingly.

Respectfully,
M. C. Gardner
Co., Supr.
